

Did you know? You were born a Transformer.

You've got grit. Grit to keep going when the going gets tough. Grit that turns failures into learnings, adversity into advantages and challenges into opportunities. #grit

You love discomfort. In fact, you're way more comfortable this way. You show up brave, not perfect, each and every day and expect the same of others. #brave

You're hungry to change the world of banking. Not just a little bit. A whole lot. This takes the courage to unlearn what you thought you knew and curiosity to seek the unknown. #hungry

You hustle. Not because you need to, but because you want to. Change doesn't just happen overnight, you know that you have to put in the work to truly transform and sustain that transformation. #hustle

You know when to pivot - adaptable is your middle name. Creativity flows through your veins so much so that you aren't afraid to commit to a new path in the blink of an eye if it means a better solution in the end. You've got this. #AQ

You are proud. You take ownership of your ideas and hold yourself and your teammates accountable to get sh*t done. You love solving problems together because you have their back and you know they have yours. #ownership

You embrace the philosophy that diversity of thought is powerful. Good ideas are built by the collective, and collaborating is just how you roll. #teamfirst

You listen. You perceive. You collaborate and you achieve.

You're a transformer.
